Four font pairings shown with the Cocoa and Mist colors. Every pairing falls back to the matching Noto Sans script for Hindi, Marathi, Gujarati, Tamil and Telugu, since none of the Latin fonts include those letters. The same UI text appears in all six languages so you can compare how each pairing handles them.

FEEL Technical, sporty headings with a soft, readable body.

WHY Stronger sneaker-brand character on titles and prices.

RISK Two Latin families to load and maintain. Sora is wide, so long Indic titles wrap sooner.

FEEL Round, friendly and very familiar from Indian shopping apps.

WHY Hindi and Marathi match the Latin text exactly.

RISK Most generic of the three. Gujarati, Tamil and Telugu still use Noto Sans, so the mix is uneven.

FEEL	Bold, athletic and punchy. Closest to Nike's own look.
WHY	Condensed uppercase headlines give banners and category titles a sports-brand edge.
RISK	The Noto Sans scripts are not condensed, so headlines look wider in the Indian languages than in English. Uppercase applies to English only.

Sizes shown are the planned app scale: display 30, title 20, body 15, caption 12, price 20.
On Android these map to sp units. Uppercase labels are used only for Latin text, because Indian scripts have no uppercase. Fonts load from Google Fonts here and would be bundled in the app.
